Our Approach

Our approach to sustainable investing begins with a deep understanding of each client's specific values and investment objectives, which oftentimes involves some level of education on sustainability trends. To that end, we start with the investment policy statement — incorporating the client's mission and ensuring that the goals of the client are clearly defined so that all responsible parties understand what is to be achieved. Compliance with the investment policy is equally as important; Marquette serves as the referee in this sense, monitoring the underlying manager's holdings and providing our clients with compliance reporting and sustainability scorecards.

Evaluation & Reporting

Marquette’s commitment to providing sustainable investing solutions for our clients is reflected in the continued enhancement of our evaluation and reporting capabilities. ESG evaluation criteria is included in our investment manager searches as part of the initial due diligence process and most recently we have integrated third-party analytics to provide portfolio-level insight and reporting across a number of ESG factors.

In recent years, the UN’s Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) have emerged as the leading framework for reporting, serving as the “universal language” when incorporating ESG into the investment process at the asset owner, asset manager, and underlying issuer levels. As such, Marquette has developed customized workshops aimed at educating asset owners on use of the SDGs and aligning a client’s investment objective and mission with them. We also incorporate the SDGs as part of our initial manager due diligence process and ongoing evaluation criteria.
