

FACTSWhat does Marquette do with your personal information?*WHY?

Financial companies choose how they share your personal information. Federal law gives consumers the right to limit some but not all sharing. Federal law also requires us to tell you how we collect, share, and protect your personal information. Please read this notice carefully to understand what we do.

WHAT?

The types of personal information we collect and share depend on the product or service you have with us. This information can include:

- Social security number and assets
- Income and risk tolerance
- Account transactions and account balances

When you are no longer our customer, we continue to share your information as described in this notice.

HOW?

All financial companies need to share customers' personal information to run their everyday business. In the section below, we list the reasons financial companies can share their customers' personal information; the reasons Marquette chooses to share; and whether you can limit this sharing.

WHAT WE DO

How does Marquette protect my personal information?

To protect your personal information from unauthorized access and use, we use security measures that comply with federal law. These measures include computer safeguards and secured files and buildings.

How does Marquette collect my personal information?

We collect your personal information, for example, when you:

- Complete an investment advisory agreement or other forms
- Open an account or seek advice about your investments
- Make a wire transfer or direct us to buy securities

Why can't I limit all sharing?

Federal Law gives you the right to limit only:

- Sharing for affiliates' everyday business purposes –information about your creditworthiness
- Affiliates from using your information to market to you
- Sharing for non-affiliates to market to you

State laws and individual companies may give you additional rights to limit sharing.

What happens when I limit sharing for a partnership interest I hold jointly with someone else?

Your choices apply to all parties, unless you inform Marquette otherwise in writing.
